Probibility that Lord Dunraven's Yacht, the Valkyrie, May be Brought Over to Compete with Some of Our American Flyers-It Will Not be for the America's Cup, However,

Boston, July 27 .- Yachtsmen are again talking about the prospects of seeing the Valkyrie pitted against some of the American 70-footers, the interest being renwakened by the published statements to the effect that General Paine had already arranged matches between her and the Titania and the Katrina. General Paine was not in town yesterday, but Mr. Burgess, who knows all the important yachting transactions made by General Paine, says that the announcenent that matches have been made is a little premature. General Paine's law partner, Mr. George H. Richards, also lenied that any matches had been made. Mr. Burgess said: "On receipt of Lord Dunrayen's letter, General Paine addressed letters of inquiry to the owners of the 70-footers, asking if they would engage in a match race with the Valkyrie. The answers were favorable to the idea of racing the Valkyrie, but there can be no international racing connected with this, and it is understood that Lord Duuaven will not come until trial races are eld to decide on the yacht which would have defended the America's cup. If he usists upon this there can be no race. The terms suggested by the owners of he American 70-footers have already been forwarded to Lord Dunraven by General Paine. The Paine cup is an inernational cup, and if Lord Dunraven really wants sport he can have enough of it contending for this. It is the inention of the Eastern Yacht Club to hold trial races to select a defender of this cup in case it is challenged for, and the owners of the four leading American 70ooters have agreed to enter their yachts n the trials. Another "Terrible Struggle" Reported to Have Occurred Near Port-Au-Prince, In Badly Bruised.

New York, July 26 .- The steamship Frederick Hendrick, which arrived yes- ings. terday from Port-au-Prince, brought word of still another terrible struggle near the Haytien capital. One man was slaughtered during the conflict and sevcral others received severe bruises. The pattle was brought about under the following circumstances: On July 18, the day before the Frederick Hendrick sailed, Hippoyte's forces, laboring under the impresion that the small fortress at La Coupe ad been evacuated by Legitime, marched orward boldly and took it by storm. It s an advantageous position for either side, being but two miles distance from Port-au-Prince and in a commanding spot. The forces of Legitime had not evacuated it, and were aroused to action by the sudden and unprecedented attack der the nom de plume of "Aria," of the troops under Hippolyte's General. Before the latter had time to apologize for entering the fort in so unceremonious a manner Legitime's troops had poured into the ranks of Hippolyte a destructive volley.
